

Optical Prism

THE MAGAZINE FOR EYECARE PROFESSIONALS

Astronaut Eyes

The rapid rise of freeform lenses

Eye on Nutrition

Sandwiched styling for a 3D look

OWP, distributed in Canada by Lanctôt, is introducing two new styles. The sportier 8577 model is made of carbon converted to steel by lamination, is wrapped in rubber and is extremely lightweight. The 1345 model exposes a clean front with fresh colours, allowing a 3D embellishment on the temples to capture your attention. An elaborate sandwich technique creates this look. The plastic long-end tip ensures comfort for everyday wear of these semi-rimless frames.

For more information, visit www.lanctot.com.

Natural cat

As vintage styles continue to influence trends, Kliik denmark introduces KL-443, a full-rim cat-eye shape made with specialized acetate. The wood grain finish of the acetate makes this angular frame right on trend with the move toward nature-inspired materials and the feline inspired shape, creating a stunning focal point on the eyes. The KL-443 colours are both feminine and dramatic in black yellow, taupe blue, and berry purple.

For more information, visit www.kliik.com.

