WestGroupe has promoted Michael DeBono to chief operating officer. With a career of more than 25 years in the optical field, he started with WestGroupe in 2005 as Canadian National Sales Manager. Since then he managed the successful expansion of the company's Canadian sales force, which led to his promotion to vice president of North American Sales in 2010. He was then promoted to executive vice president of global sales in 2015. As COO he will continue to oversee the sales teams along with the corporate head office. "I owe my sales team a special thank you, because if it wasn't for their outstanding performance I wouldn't be in this position," he said.
