Fashion Friday: Superflex Frames Eyewear Giveaway

● JULY 12, 2013 BY BLONDE MOM ● 22 COMMENTS

Disclosure: I was sent eyeglass frames to review for purposes of this blog post and giveaway.

It used to be that glasses were something you "had" to wear and there weren't many frames options. Glasses were utilitarian not a fashion statement!

A little trivia for you, I am extremely nearsighted. I didn't start wearing glasses until my senior year of college and I now wear contacts all the time, although I do wear my glasses at night.

When I first started wearing glasses 20 years ago I wore them daily to work and for driving and I was really into choosing attractive frames. Admittedly, though, my current frames are in sad shape and probably a decade old. I affectionately call them my nerds. Since I only wear them at night at home I haven't felt the need to upgrade. My "nerds" bit the dust somewhere over the Atlantic during my recent trip to Africa, however, when I passed out on the international flight from New York to London. Good times! Perhaps this was karma telling me I needed an upgrade.

Westgroupe, maker of Superflex Frames, contacted me about reviewing their stylish frames. I was super excited about choosing some that were stylish and that I would actually be OK with wearing to work if I'm having a bad allergy day and my eyes are dry.

I hadn't been shopping for frames in years so it was fun to see all the new styles for adults and kids. It was a difficult decision to narrow down my choices, but I ultimately chose two color options of the same frame. I loved this fun turquoise pictured below. I also chose a burgundy frame.

Now for the fun part, one of YOU will win a pair of Superflex frames, your choice of style (depending on availability). To enter, simply leave a comment letting me know which frame you like on me...the burgundy or teal in the same frame. I'll be honest with ya'll, I love them both so I may end up getting prescription lenses put in both! A winner will be selected randomly from all entries left by midnight July 27 (prize value starts at $200!)

Welcome!
